

Stacy & Ben

While holidaying in Queenstown in New Zealand, Ben surprised Stacy by taking her to a beautiful dinner and then to the mineral hot spas. The room was filled with candles, the roof opened up and the spa was situated on a cliff overlooking the mountains and river below. It couldn't get any more perfect – until Ben proposed! The couple married at Boomerang Farm. The ceremony was held on the deck overlooking the creek, and Ben and his groomsmen rode in on their motorbikes. Despite their big entrance, nothing could top the moment Stacy appeared. She looked incredible in a backless gown by Leonard Derecourt Designer, which featured scalloped beading down the train and across the bust. The ceremony was followed by a garden party with wood-fired pizza before the reception in the 100-year-old barn. The reception felt very rustic, and had a beautiful warm feeling to it, with open fires and marshmallows to roast. The barn was decorated with old photos of their family, homemade relishes and vintage fine china crockery. The highlight of the day for the couple was the speeches – it reminded them how amazing their friends are and how lucky they were to be sharing the special day with those people.

“Don't get lost in making your wedding bigger and better than the next person. If it resembles you and your husband, it will be special in every way.”
